CONCERT UNDER AUSPICES OF UNIVERSITY SENIOR CLASS.

Colored Man Found in Helpless Condition—Sisters of Providence to Erect $70,000 Building.

The commencement festivities of Georgetown University opened last evening in Gaston Hall with a concert given under the auspices of the senior class. The large auditorium was filled to its seating capacity, and the colors of the national emblem, supplemented by rich floral decorations, presented a pleasing scene.

The Georgetown University Mandolin Club was first introduced and gave two selections. The glee club followed, and contributed a number of catchy college songs. The songs of the glee club elicited hearty applause, and they responded to another appeal from the audience for an encore. appeal from the audience for an encore.

contributed by Mr. Alexander I. Rorke, a student of the law department, followed by Mr. Daniel A. Millbrick, who sang a couple of barytone solos.

In the second part of the program the mandolin club rendered a very pleasing selection, entitled "Cupid's Garden," by Penrose. The glee club then contributed several original songs. A reading was given Permit for Academy Building.

The Sisters of Providence, who some time ago purchased a tract of ground in Tenleytown for the purpose of erecting thereon a female academy, as announced in The Star at the time, have been granted a permit for the erection of a three-story stone building, the cost of which is estimated at $70,000. The Brennan Construction Company has been awarded the contract for the building of the structure. The academy will be located at the corner of 41st and Yuma streets, Tenleytown. The church was filled with a large audience, and the address called forth hearty expressions of approval. We Back Up Our Advertising With the Biggest Clothing Values Ever Offered in Washington.

Advertising is a good thing—when it's BACKED UP. You may get a man into a store by advertising, but you can't sell him goods unless you can "DELIVER THE GOODS." Our best advertising is not in the newspapers, but in the quality of our merchandise and the lowness of our prices. A man came in here the other day and asked to see our best $10 Serge Suit. We showed him the serge usually sold at $10—and told him our price was $6.50. He would have cheerfully paid $10 for the suit, but he got it for $6.50—and bought a lot of other things besides—and when he left he said we could put his name on our roll as a PERMANENT CUSTOMER. That illustrates our policy exactly—we want to make customers—not big profits. We want to build up the biggest clothing business in Washington—and if strictly honest dealing will do it we are on the road to a great success.

MAY HAVE GONE TO ST. LOUIS.

Message Suggestive of Whereabouts of William D. Deloe.

The mail yesterday afternoon brought to Mrs. Deloe a message in the nature of a suggestion concerning the probable wherebouts of her husband, William D. Deloe, the mail collector, who disappeared Tuesday afternoon. The message bore the signature of J. P. Price and suggested that the missing man had probably gone to St. Louis. The writer of the note signed his name as a friend, but Mrs. Deloe does not know anybody of that name. It is thought he may be a friend of the family and that he did not care to sign his own name. Deloe, it is believed, had said something to the friend about wanting to go to St.

In the note the missing man sent his wife from Baltimore he said:
"When you receive this I will be dead. got myself into trouble. I cannot say what it is. Farewell. what it is. Farewell, WILL."
Capt. Boardman has asked the Baltimore authorities to look out for Deloe, but has heard nothing from them, and is satisfied that the missing man is not dead. Had he intended to end his life, the captain thinks, he would have left his means with his ne would have left his money with his wife. This he did not do.

ROCKVILLE AND VICINITY.

Case of Alleged Violation of Local Option Before Judge Motter. special Correspondence of The Evening Star.

ROCKVILLE, Md., June 2, 1904. A local option case of more than usual interest has just been tried before Judge Motter in the circuit court at this place. It was against William H. and George Bobnger, owners of Cabin John Hotel, and John and Thomas Noonan, who were connected with the hotel last summer. The indictment was found at the last November term of court and the case was set for trial on a special day last month, but, owng to an important witness for the defense being unable to be present, the case was not concluded at that time. The Noonans neve never been arrested, but Mr. William H. Bobinger was in court. The contention of the Bobingers was that they were not responsible for the sale of liquor and were neither morally nor technically guilty of a violation of the law.

Mr. William H. Bobinger testified that a werbal contract was entered into between the Bobinger Brothers and the Noonan Brothers for the lease of the hotel. The final arrangement was that the Bobingers were to run the dining room and the Noonans the grounds and all business at the hotel excepting the meals, the Bobingers to receive 25 per cent of the gross receipts of the Noonan part of the business. On cross-examination Mr. Bobinger admitted that separate cashiers were employed. The waiters served both parties to the contract, each paying one-half of the wages. He saw the guests in the dining room served with liquors, but did not see any sale. The bill for liquors was on the same check as the bill for meals, but the money for drinks was paid to the Noonan cashier and the money for meals to the Bobinger cashier. Mr. Bobinger denied that either he or his brother had anything to do with the sale of liquors. erbal contract was entered into between liquors.

Mr. Arthur Peter of Washington testified that the contract between the Bobingers and Noonans was made at his office and admitted that the contract was so worded as to protect the Bobingers and that was its object.

object.

In arguing the case, Messrs. Edward C. Peter and Arthur Peter, counsel for the Bobingers, contended that in order to convict the Bobingers it would be necessary for the state to show that the Noonans were either their agents or partners, State's Attorney Robert B. Peter held that it was not necessary to prove either in this case. He declared that there had been a most remarkable conspiracy to violate the law and that the whole transaction was a subterfuge and an effort to indirectly do what could not be done under the law.

Judge Motter stated that owing to the his decision until next Monday.

Mr. Bradley Winfield Warfield and Miss
Georgia Eleanor King, both of the upper section of this county, visited Rockville to-day and were married by Rev. Thomas J. the ceremony taking place at the rectory. Mrs. Benjamin Riggs of this place, who has been dangerously ill for several weeks

"Some time will be required to make the ports of Dalny and Talienwan safe for shipping to enter, as the San Shantao Islands have been connected very skillfully with the mainland by mines zigzagging over a large field. The damage to the Russian works ashore is insignificant. The Japanese have much railway material on the way. "There is no information as to the fate
